At Art Deco-inspired lounge's Ophelia, the Purple Tuxedo was created by Bar Director Amir Babayoff. It is made with Empress 1908 gin, aquavit, velvet falernum, absinthe, and plum bitters. "Featuring a cocktail menu filled with reinventions of classic and signature libations inspired by the glory of the lounge during its heyday in the 1920s - the Purple Tuxedo is consistently one of the lounge's best-selling cocktails. Inspired by the fashionable young flappers flouting conventional standards of behavior, the shimmering, bold purple cocktail is the perfect party accessory to ring in the new year," said Ophelia's Bar Director, Amir Babayoff.
