

IN OTHER BROOKLYN NEWS

New Spot Tiny's Cantina Brings “Mexican Pizza” to Prospect Heights

by BROOKLYN READER
May 4, 2021

After successfully serving some Brooklyn's best barbecue for nearly eight years before temporarily closing due to a kitchen fire, the Morgan's Barbecue crew is back at it with a new concept in the same neighborhood.

Tiny's Cantina opened on Friday with a menu by executive chef Cenobio Canalizo and cocktail list by beverage director Aubrey Ruettiger and general manager Jono Moratis. Expect flavors prominently inspired by Puebla and Oaxaca, and a selection of more than 75 tequila and mezcal varieties in a space lined with exposed brick, swiped with jewel tones and illuminated by natural light through a facade of sidewalk-facing windows.