

Celebrate Cinco de Mayo at This Year's Newest Spots

ELLIE PLASS

MAY 4, 2021 @2:54 PM

f t in ✉ 🖨

Tacos from Tiny's Cantina. Photo by Food and City.

In celebration of the coming of this year's Cinco de Mayo, we've decided to round-up some of the amazing taquerias and restaurants that have opened so far this year. New businesses need your support now more than ever, so treat yourself to a few margaritas, some guacamole, and some ceviche. Go fancy with a newly Michelin recognized vegan and vegetarian spot, or keep things casual with a take-out birria taco.

Tiny's Cantina

229 Flatbush Avenue, between Dean and Bergen streets.

The newest spot open on this list, Tiny's is serving their regular menu for Cinco de Mayo. They've got 75 mezcals and tequilas on the menu, and are making a name for themselves in the world of tlayuda, a favorite of ours.