Loire Valley

Located in the north-west corner of France along the Loire River. The driest whites can be found on the outskirts of the region; Muscadet to the far west, home to the slightly salty but very dry wine made from Melon de Bourgogne, and Sancerre and Pouilly-Fumé to the far east, where you'll find flinty smoky styles of Sauvignon Blanc. Towards the center of the valley is the region of Vouvray, making Chenin Blanc in various levels of sweetness.

Burgundy

With an intricate system of land ownership and diverse terroir, Burgundy is home to two of the world's most popular grapes; Chardonnay and Pinot Noir. In Chablis, you'll find mineral and acid driven Chardonnay. In the regions of Meursault and Puligny-Montrachet you'll find Chardonnays with characteristics of new oak such as toasted almond and toasted bread as opposed to Chardonnay from the Mâcon that has more ripe, tropical fruit characteristics.

French Red Wines

Loire Valley

The red wines coming out of the Loire Valley, made from Cabernet Franc, can show characteristics of red fruits, red roses, and pencil lead. Chinon, Bourgueil, and St-Nicolas-de-Bourgueil are the Loire Valley's best regions for red wine.

- 300 Couly Dutheil “Clos de l’Echo” 2014 73
Cabernet Franc, Chinon

Burgundy

For Burgundian Pinot Noirs, expect black currant and earthy mushroom from Côte de Nuit, plum and tobacco from Côte de Beaune, and dried strawberry with soft tannins from Côte Chalonnaise. Beaujolais is famous for its wines made from the grape Gamay. They are typically lighter bodied and very fruit forward compared to Pinot Noir.

Bordeaux

One of the World's most famous wine regions growing three of the most popular grape varieties; Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, and Sauvignon Blanc. The regions on the left bank of the Gironde River such as Saint-Estèphe, Pauillac, and Saint-Julien is where the heavy and age worthy Cabernets are from. The regions on the right bank such as Pomerol and Saint-Émilion is where you'll find the elegant Merlots.
