The Nice Guy: FugetAbout Time

So, last week you were forced to change all of your clocks yet again. And now, even though your house clocks may be correct (though most of you probably still haven't changed them...), you're internal clock is completely effed. Well what better way to help calibrate your system then by going back in time?

No, I'm not talking about hopping into the DeLorean; I'm talking about heading to a place where time has no meaning. LA, meet h.wood Group's first culinary hot spot The Nice Guy. Created by the team who brought you Bootsy Bellows and SHOREBar, this new mafia-inspired lounge will not only allow you to forget the time of day (who can keep track of that anyways) but also the time period.
