Deck the (Food) Halls! NYC Restaurants with Amazing Christmas Decorations

It's one thing to get all dressed up for the holidays, but it's even cooler when you arrive at a favorite spot and find that it has gotten gussied up for the season as well. There are plenty of restaurants in NYC that do Christmas decorations with extra flair, with tinsel, trees and even a Santa or two. Some are over-the-top, others more refined with festooned fireplace mantels and cozy fires crackling away. Whatever your pleasure, swing by one of these restaurants for the most festive Christmas decor in NYC while you dine. [Looking for more to do in NYC during the holidays? For a Waterfront Chalet Feel: Industry Kitchen

Forget heading to a ski chalet. Instead, head downtown to Industry Kitchen, an industrial chic space located at the South Street Seaport, for some of the most extensive holiday decorations in town. We're talking 5,000 square feet of sparkling lights, Christmas greenery, giant reindeer families on the terrace, snow-flocked Christmas trees and wreaths along with two tall nutcrackers at the entryway. And then there are the tasty treats your kids will go love such as Gingernut Pizza with a ginger crust, eggnog frosting, spicy pecans, candy canes and sprinkles or Pop Candy Land pizza, featuring a rainbow crust, cream cheese frosting, pop rocks and cotton candy. Yum!
