

Plate Full of New York News Bites Coming in Hot

Written By: 🍷 David Farley

This week Michelin has added a handful of exciting new restaurants to their NYC guide, a quartet of restaurants have announced their unfortunate demise, and there are some appealing and refreshing new summer menus being unveiled.

Don't Miss This Week

Need some dining out recommendations? Try these three hot spots, and make sure to check out the week's events.

Friday: In Chelsea, along a not-very-promising stretch of Seventh Avenue, is a very promising new Mexican restaurant called Casa Felix. I'll be there, devouring Oaxacan Cheese Croquettes, Scallop Crudo, and Achiote-Roasted Salmon—with, of course, a Ruby Rita, a pomegranate-flavored frozen margarita.