Chelsea has a new reason to linger after dinner with Casa Felix, a stylish modern Mexican spot on Seventh Avenue that blends bold flavors, agave-forward cocktails, and an energetic social atmosphere. From the team behind Ophelia, Philippe Chow, Industry Kitchen, and Art Bar, the restaurant channels the warmth and vibrancy of Mexico City, creating a space that's just as appealing for cocktails with friends as it is for a full evening out.

Chef Rey Martinez's menu puts a contemporary spin on regional Mexican dishes, while Beverage Director Steven Restrepo showcases tequila and mezcal in a creative cocktail program. With a lively dining room, inviting bar, cozy lounge, and private entertaining spaces, Casa Felix is designed to keep the night going long after the plates are cleared, adding a fresh new destination to Chelsea's ever-evolving dining scene.
