THE MOST SCENIC INFINITY POOL IN NEW YORK? TO THE AIRPORT

On May 15, the TWA Hotel inaugurates its new infinity pool, inspired by the historic one of the Hotel du Cap-Eden-Roc

When the temperatures in the city start to rise during the summer, if you don't have the chance to escape into natural paradises far from the frenzy, the only thing to do is to look for a small corner of relaxation a short distance from the metropolis. And in New York, May 15, inaugurates what is already announced as one of the place to be this summer: the infinity pool of the TWA Hotel.

Located on the roof of the TWA Hotel together with the new observatory of over three thousand square meters, the pool offers a 360-degree view of the lively take-off and landing runways, and takes inspiration from that of the Hotel du Cap-Eden-Roc, one of the best in the world, which presents an entrance on the beach and steps that also serve as underwater seats. On the seventh floor of the luxurious hotel, the infinity pool is far enough away from jet fumes and excessive noise, but close enough to see the constant coming and going of planes.

The pool water is purified every 30 minutes, and is pleasant even in winter thanks to the heating system. To sip a cocktail by the pool and to view the planes, Gerber Group,, known for Mr. Purple and The Campbell at Grand Central Terminal, will take care of a wide range of sophisticated drinks, accompanied by a rich food menu. Hotel guests at John F. Kennedy Airport will have free access to the swimming pool, bar and restaurant, while reservations will be required for the outside public.
