

September 2017

Volume 20, N° 4

All That's Good in Time

Fashion

Watch Journal

Featuring: The Grand Seiko Snowflake SBGA211G.

Also: Tall
Live from Mon:
On the Wri

WATCH JOURNAL

The Campbell

Not catching a train? Go to Grand Central anyway. One of New York's most distinguished lounges recently reopened in the Beaux Arts icon financed by Cornelius "Commodore" Vanderbilt. Closed for a year, the hidden bar, once the office of Gilded Age tycoon John W. Campbell, is back and better than ever thanks to a light refresh and a new menu by the Gerber Group. The massive stone fireplace, stained-glass window, and even Campbell's original safe are all still there. Snag a table on the balcony for a bird's-eye view of the stunning room below. —L.I.

15 Vanderbilt Avenue

CITY GUIDE: NEW YORK CITY

retailers
an-owned retailer
he biggest names
d, carrying most tigious labels the offer, including Patek
guet, Rolex, Cartier, Söhne, IWC, and
nce opening in 1980,
dy Albers has set a atch sales in New York that has been hard for others to beat. Upon arrival, it's customary to be treated to espresso and some good conversation, often by Rudy himself. —J.B.

700 5th Avenue

The Campbell

Not catching a train? Go to Grand Central anyway. One of New York's most distinguished lounges recently reopened in the Beaux Arts icon financed by Cornelius "Commodore" Vanderbilt. Closed for a year, the hidden bar, once the office of Gilded Age tycoon John W. Campbell, is back and better than ever thanks to a light refresh and a new menu by the Gerber Group. The massive stone fireplace, stained-glass window, and even Campbell's original safe are all still there. Snag a table on the balcony for a bird's-eye view of the stunning room below. —L.I.

15 Vanderbilt Avenue

Cellini Jewelers

Ever since Leon Adams opened the doors of Cellini, in 1977, his store has enjoyed a cult following among collectors in search of the truly rare and complicated. He was among the first U.S. retailers to carry marques such as Greubel Forsey, A. Lange & Söhne, and Laurent Ferrier, and his passion for independent watches has made Cellini a must-stop. —J.B.

509 Madison Avenue