Thanksgiving 2016: Where To Dine In NYC

Thanksgiving is a time to come together with family, friends, and most importantly, food. But no one technically said you had to cook it yourself. From Italian to Israeli to classic American fare, head out to one of these top NYC restaurants for a holiday feast you don't even have to clean up after. Sounds like something to be thankful for.

Irvington

The bright, airy eatery located on the ground floor of the W New York – Union Square will be offering a prix-fixe Thanksgiving meal at $55 per person or a special Chef's Table package at $80 per person or $115 per person with wine pairings. We'll go with the wine, thanks.
