Essential Spots for Eating Outside in NYC

Not that we really need an excuse to tell you to eat outside while you still can, but there is a national holiday that demands you do so. We're letting you in on the best places to spend national eat outside day, when August 31st rolls around. Here are the essential spots for eating outside in NYC.

Mr. Purple

Complete with a swimming pool, chaise lounges, two terraces, a large interior and stunning views of the city, Mr. Purple is super chic and ideal for Instagram pics. Try a classic or specialty cocktail here, or come in for brunch and get the buttermilk fried chicken sandwich or the decadent grilled cheese that comes on sourdough with gruyere and ham.
