Battery Park City is getting a new destination for lingering dinners and late-night cocktails when Maison Madison opens on July 10. Created by hospitality entrepreneurs Abraham Merchant and James Belakh, the French-inspired restaurant and cocktail bar draws inspiration from the salon culture of Paris, where exceptional food, handcrafted drinks, and conversation naturally stretch long into the evening. Reservations are now available through Resy.

Executive Chef Antelmo Ambrosio has crafted a French-inspired menu designed to pair with an inventive cocktail program from acclaimed Beverage Director Amir Babayoff, while the interiors by SPACE NY blend old-world Parisian romance with contemporary New York style.

The opening also marks the debut of Friends of Maddie, a membership community focused on personalized hospitality, curated events, and exclusive experiences that encourage guests to make Maison Madison a regular destination rather than just a special occasion.
