

The Philadelphia Inquirer

Michael Klein

The 15 best hoagies | Let's Eat

Also: Where to pick your own berries, a beer is revived by Yards, and restaurant news.

by Michael Klein

Published 4 hours ago

Here we go with another list of our favorites. This time it's the hoagie, that born-in-Philly sandwich. Fifteen shops. Also this week, we'll tell you where to pick berries and also drop some hot restaurant dish on you about Vernick, which critic Craig LaBan has said is the best overall restaurant in town. (Perhaps we mean the best all-around restaurant. An “overall” restaurant might be taking “farm-to-table” to the extreme.)

If you need food news, click here and follow me on Twitter and Instagram. Email tips, suggestions, and questions here. If someone forwarded you this newsletter and you like what you're reading, sign up here to get it free every week.

– Michael Klein

Restaurant openings on the way include a West Philly location for Greenstreet Coffee Co. (4533 Baltimore Ave., where Renata's Kitchen was, May 22); the barbecue outlets Morgan's BBQ (replacing Mistral in King of Prussia Mall, May 25) and Huff & Puff BBQ (246 S. 11th St. in Philadelphia, May 27). Looking ahead: I see a sushi spot called Ikki opening at 310 Market St. (June 1).