

THE ROOF

February 17, 2019

am NEWYORK

Oscars viewing parties in NYC: Where to watch the award show

This year's Oscars is jam-packed with nominated films that have rocked us ("Bohemian Rhapsody"), thrilled us ("Black Panther") and made us weep ("A Star is Born"). But, there are only a few that will actually take home the title of "best."

It all comes to a head on Feb. 24, when the 91st Academy Awards -- set to air at 8 p.m. on ABC -- brings out Hollywood's finest to the red carpet as stars vie for the coveted titles of best actor, best actress and more.

So, grab a front-row seat at these bars, restaurants and theaters to see how well your favorite flick of the year -- from "Roma" to "The Favourite" -- fares on Oscars night.

The Roof

The Roof is offering five themed cocktails, such as "A Star is Born" made with Booodles gin, fresh lemon juice, apricot liqueur and prosecco, pictured, "Black Panther" made with bourbon, honey and lemon juice, and "Roma" made with Mezcal, Penfolds Red Blend, Cointreau, lime juice and simple syrup, and free complimentary popcorn as it streams the show. (124 W. 57th St., theroofny.com)