Au revoir!

BEFORE YOU GO . . .

---

Here's one last bite to keep you satisfied! A Fish Called Avalon opened in 1989 in the glory days of Miami's Art Deco District and became an icon on the beach. Now, thanks to recent renovations, the award-winning seafood destination is primed to spearhead the revitalization of Miami Beach. The iconic Avalon Hotel—which opened in 1941 and has served as a backdrop for many movies and cultural happenings—is also home to an iconic yellow-and-white 1955 Oldsmobile, one of the most photographed cars in America. The lively indoor-outdoor restaurant on Ocean Drive has been a favorite haunt of many celebrities, including Harrison Ford, Emilio and Gloria Estefan, and Guy Ritchie.
