Women in Wine

March is International Women's' Month and as we celebrate the accomplishments of women in the wine industry, our in-house Wine Director, Marsha Wright, has highlighted wines from our list that are female focused.

DOMAINE SKOURAS, MOSCOFILERO, PELOPONNESE, GREECE

Winemaker: Dimitra Trachani

$15 | glass $60 | bottle

Since 2002, Dimitra Trachani has been an integral part of Domaine Skouras, where she trained and learned under the legendary, George Skouras, and currently serves as Head Oenologist and Quality Control Manager. Dimitra continues to lead with unmatched expertise and passion, crafting wines that not only reflect her dedication but also help shape the future of winemaking, one bottle at a time.

"Working in the wine industry as a woman has been both challenging and deeply rewarding. While it is still a traditionally male-dominated field, I've seen incredible progress, with more women bringing creativity, precision, and fresh perspectives to winemaking. For me, wine is about collaboration, passion, and storytelling, and I'm proud to be part of a generation helping shape a more inclusive and diverse future for the industry." -Dimitra Trachani

JORDAN CHARDONNAY, RUSSIAN RIVER VALLEY, CALIFORNIA

Winemaker: Maggie Kruse

$23 | glass $90 | bottle

Maggie joined Jordan Winery as an enologist in 2006. She was promoted to associate winemaker in 2016 before being named head winemaker in 2019 and known for her diverse skill set and strong work ethic. Maggie is winemaker for both their Chardonnay & Cabernet offerings.

"I'm proud to be a woman winemaker in an industry where our voices and visions are shaping the future of wine. Working alongside a predominately female team reminds me ever day that collaboration, resilience, and shared passion make our wines stronger. There's something powerful about women lifting each other up in this industry, and I'm honored to be a part of that." -Maggie Kruse

ALPHA ESTATE SMX, SYRAH | MERLOT | XINOMAVRO, AMYNDEON, GREECE

Winemaker: Angeliki Iatridou

$17 | glass $68 | bottle

Considered to be one of the most cutting edge producers in Greece, Alpha Estate has vineyards situated 2,000 feet above sea level and produce some of the most prestigious wines in Greece. At the helm, Angeliki Iatridou has established herself as a force in the winemaking industry, honoring the techniques and skills learned from working directly with her father, founder and wine master, Angelo Iatridou. Alpha Estate always strive for precision grape-growing and focused terroir-driven wines that are bold and exciting.

"Working with other women in wine is a constant reminder that generosity and excellence can live in the same glass. When women share knowledge, contacts, and honest feedback, the whole industry gets sharper—and more human." -Angeliki Iatridou
