Laherte Frères
À CHAVOT

Jean-Baptiste Laherte set up the family estate in 1889, planting most of the vines in the village of Chavost, which was to become Chavot.

The estate gradually grew over generations, and covers today, over 11 hectares through the Champagne region.
The sixth and seventh generations are now working together to create wines that are just like them - pure, sincere and authentic. They share their experience and combine their efforts to make the most of this beautiful heritage.

David's & Kevin Hart's first encounter with Laherte:

Life has a way of catching us off guard, and it's even more momentous when it happens over a glass of wine. A particular memory stayed with us during one of the most impactful glasses we ever consumed. It all happened at La Grande Crèmerie, a natural wine bar in Paris back in 2013. There were many liquids flowing that evening. A glass of Champagne was poured and tasted.

Life paused as reality hit.

There was surely electricity in this juice—energy, precision, verve. Minerality hit us over the head. A true testament to the caliber of Laherte was the moment Gordon Hue—owner of WineCraft, tasted this same wine later on.

With his first sip, he looked at Kevin, eyes wide–
"You did good, kid. You did really good."

Noëllat Burgundy

GEORGES NOËLLAT

For decades, the magnificent old-vine holdings of Domaine Georges Noëllat quietly flew under the radar, selling most of their fruit to Burgundy's top négociant houses.
That changed in 2010 when driven 20-year-old winemaker, Maxime Cheurlin, took the reins of his family's historic Vosne-Romanée estate.
Cheurlin instituted a gentle approach of "infusing" rather than aggressive extraction through pressing grapes, and prefers a restrained use of oak.
The acclaim throughout the wine world was immediate, launching the estate into the upper echelon of the Côte de Nuits.
To supplement these prized family terroirs, he established his micro-négoce label, Maxime Cheurlin Noëllat, applying his meticulous standards to hand-selected neighbor vineyards.
Across both labels, the signature style remains unmistakably pure, emphasizing floral perfumes, silky textures, and vibrant freshness.

These are Pinot Noirs that favor elegance over power, offering a clear window into some of the most famed vineyards of Burgundy.

Boca is excited to offer the following selection of Maxime's wines.
