

The New York Times

OFF THE MENU

Classic French Fare at Brasserie Saint Marc in the East Village

The latest from Joaquin Baca of Teo and Brooklyn Star, a former White House pastry chef's first restaurant, and more restaurant news.

Ivy Lane

The latest from Abraham Merchant, in the former Jade Sixty space with more than 160 seats on three levels, has an ivy-covered facade to match its name. The restaurant has a modern American menu with French and Asian touches from the chef Sung Park.

(Wednesday)

116 East 60th Street, ivylanenyc.com.

