NYC Easter brunch: The best restaurants to celebrate the holiday

It's almost time to grab your Easter basket and head out for a day in New York City. But there's no need to go hunting for plastic or hard-boiled eggs, especially when there are plenty of places that have food as good as any prize.

Grab your basket — and your wallet — and check out some of the city's top spots for brunching with family and friends on Easter Sunday.

Kingside

Surfing 'n' turfing is a whole lot better with Kingside's Easter brunch. Along with their traditional brunch items, including buttermilk fried chicken sandwiches, steak and eggs, and lobster scramble, you can also try their colossal soft crab with scrambled eggs and potato hash or the roasted rack of lamb with fingerling potatoes and lamb jus.
