WINE TO GO NMT

Field Recordings, "SKINS" (Chenin Blanc, Riesling, Pinot Gris) Central Coast CA '19 $40

"Beauty isn't only skin deep, but flavor might be"- A playful quote showing the importance and focus of "SKINS" a wine from California producer: Andrew Jones. Field Recordings wines are a catalog of single vineyard sites that produce wines with a sense of place and personality. A crisp and earthy orange wine made from de-stemmed grapes that were specially fermented on their skins. It's perfect to pair with spicy foods, late springtime, and well... nearly anything! Give it a try if you enjoy orange cliché's such as: Apricot, Cured Mango, or Marzipan. This wine will make you a believer in non-red wines.

Forlorn Hope "Queen of the Sierra" (Pippoul, Verdelho, Chardonnay, Albariño) '17 -$45

Another unusual and lively blend from Trailblazer Matther Rorick of 'Forlorn Hope wines" These unique grapes come together for a fresh, nervy, delicate blanc style that's filled out with some creamy richness. You get some citrus aromas of lime and lemon zest, and then some lightly spicy mouthfeel of white pepper and ginger for an overall orchard fruit driven wine.

Storm Point (Chenin Blanc) Swartland South Africa -$35

Playing a bit with the boating theme, it only seemed appropriate to offer Storm Point Wines as an option. I encourage you to read more about this winery and all their legendary inspiration told tale on the backs of their bottles. Chenin Blanc is unquestionably the premier grape of South Africa. This wine hails from two sites in the Swartland, gnarly, bush vines on gentle sloping granitic, sandy soil. Intense aromatics, powerful flavors and bright acidity are the hallmarks of this wine. It has a well-defined and savory notes of lemon curd, white flowers, nectarine zest and a sprinkling of sea water. It's bright finish and persistent and lingering freshness will work well with all the wonders of the sea!
