

Places to Celebrate Lunar New Year in NYC

 January 24, 2024, 7:11.21 pm ET

With the Chinese New Year quickly approaching on February 10th, here are some places to celebrate the Year of the dragon in style!

Photo: Philippe Chow

Philippe by Philippe Chow unleashes the dragon for a vibrant Lunar New Year celebration. On Saturday, February 10th, both Philippe locations (Meatpacking and Upper East Side) have planned lively celebrations featuring captivating live dragon dance performances. The first showing will be at 7:30pm in Meatpacking and 9:00pm on the Upper East Side. Guests will be able to immerse themselves in the festive atmosphere as they savor the exquisite Beijing-inspired cuisine perfect for celebrating the new year ahead. For $95pp, opt for the family-style tasting experience where diners will receive a variety of signature appetizers, entrees, a whole Peking duck (per 6 guests), side dishes, fruit, and sorbet.

