That same evening, Jon Bon Jovi was livin' on a prayer — and Peking duck — when he stepped out for dinner at Philippe Chow's Fifth Avenue outpost.

The legendary rocker enjoyed a feast with a large group of pals, digging into the upscale Chinese eatery's signature dishes, including chicken lettuce wraps, chicken satays, green prawns and crispy beef. The "It's My Life" singer even took a moment to pose for a photo with his waiters before calling it a night.
