Umberto's of New Hyde Park recently hosted its inaugural car show in partnership with the New York Alfa Romeo Owner's Club (NYAROC) in support of Island Harvest Food Bank. The August 25 event attracted over 300 attendees, raised funds and collected over 300 pounds of non-perishable food items in support of Island Harvest to further the non-profit's mission of ending hunger and reducing food waste on Long Island.

The event, held in Umberto's parking lot, featured 39 vintage and modern authentic Alfa Romeo vehicles, live music, raffles, giveaways and more.

"For the first time, the New York Alfa Romeo Owners Club and the members of our community came together to celebrate our Italian heritage, as well as give back to Long Islanders in need. My father and other members of the Umberto's family have faced food insecurity. For this reason, along with our commitment to our community we wanted to start a new tradition. It is imperative for us all join with Island Harvest and support their mission to help those facing food insecurity here on Long Island," said Ida Corteo, of Umberto's of New Hyde Park.

"Food insecurity continues to affect thousands of families on Long Island and the numbers are growing. It is wonderful to see the collaboration between Umberto's and the New York Alfa Romeo Owner's Club. Their efforts will help us to re-stock our shelves and provide meals to our neighbors in need," said Randi Shubin Dresner, president & CEO, Island Harvest.
