

The patio at Toro Denver, a new Richard Sandoval restaurant in Cherry Creek. (Provided by Toro)

8 new Denver restaurants you've gotta try before summer ends

It's a surprisingly exciting time to try these new spots

By Josie Sexton, The Denver Post · Aug 18, 2020, 3:08 pm

The swanky nighttime destination: Toro, Cherry Creek

Cherry Creek's Marriott hotel is the setting for Denver's newest Richard Sandoval restaurant. It's a Latin-Asian fusion concept with previous locations in Tokyo, Mexico City, Cabo San Lucas, Belgrade, Serbia, Scottsdale and Snowmass Village. Which is to say, Toro has it all dialed in. Go for a big morning and the bottomless brunch ($30-$49), or a night out with lots of tequila, ceviche and the lobster quesadilla ($18).

150 Clayton Lane, 303-253-3000, open for lunch and dinner daily and happy hour weekdays, check the website for hours for each, torodenver.com